NEW WAR FRONT WARNINGS

Rome, To-day.

The newspapers devote columns to despatches from all over Europe about what their headlines describe as "the threat of war from the Black Sea to the Arctic."

While all newspapers refrain from comment, the impression is created that hostilities may break out at any moment in the Caucasus as well as northern Europe.

Some newspapers prominently display Berlin reports about General Weygand's army in Syria and emphasise the vulnerability of the Soviet oil-bearing district.

Cairo despatches stress the collaboration in the Near East between Britain, France and Egypt.

"Tribuna" quotes a statement in an Istanbul newspaper that Turkey will enter the war on the side of the Allies on the day that any power marches against the Balkans. — Reuter.

NAVAL ACTIVITY IN ARCTIC

NERVOUS MISGIVING IN BERLIN

Zurich, To-day.

There is anxiety in Berlin as a result of what is described as the activities of the British Navy in northern seas, according to the Berlin correspondent of the "Neue Zürcher Zeitung."

The correspondent says: "Nervous misgivings in Berlin concerning the activity of the British Navy in Norwegian territory are growing more and more and are developing into anxiety. Lest Britain may start a great war offensive, to be launched from the north of Europe."

"The German authorities therefore are trying to give the impression that not a moment will be lost in starting a big offensive before the British Navy or Air Force have launched these big attacks." — Reuter.

AVIATION ACTIVITY

Paris, To-day.

Last night's French communiqué said there was some aviation activity on either side. — Reuter.

ALLIED RESPONSIBILITY AFTER WAR—NO SCOPE FOR ANOTHER RUN AMUCK

PARIS, TO-DAY

"WHEN THE WAR IS OVER WE MUST SEE THAT FOR A LONG PERIOD — AT LEAST TWO GENERATIONS — NO STATE IN EUROPE HAS THE POSSIBILITY OF RUNNING AMOK," SAID COMMANDER STEPHEN KING-HALL, THE POLITICAL COMMENTATOR AND NATIONAL LABOUR M.P., LECTURING BEFORE A FASHIONABLE FRENCH AUDIENCE HERE YESTERDAY.

Commander King-Hall continued that the responsibility for this rests on Britain and France.

"We must create in the minds of our two peoples," he declared, "fidelity, loyalty, respect and real affection for a country which is neither French nor British but Franco-British."

ALLIES MUST AID FINLAND

— MR. HORE-BELISHA

London, To-day.

That France and Britain should throw all their weight by sea, air and land into the task of helping Finland, was urged by Mr. Leslie Hore-Belisha, addressing his constituents at Devonport yesterday in his first public speech since resigning the War Ministry.

"The Allies have no easy task before them," he declared. "To assure triumph they must rely not on an internal enemy collapse but a defeat by external force."

"The continued resistance of Finland gives reason to believe that Russia's might rests on insecure foundations." (Continued on Page 20.)

Sacrifice would not end with the war. The danger was that once peace was obtained, people would exclaim "Let's get back to normal life."

"We must make people understand that to get back to normal life is to sow the seeds for a third war."

"We mustn't attempt to solve problems within a national framework. Steps should be taken to establish new departments in the Anglo-French Foreign Ministries, devoted to the task of working out ways and means of Anglo-French co-operation in peacetime."

"I would establish a consultative council, 50 per cent. French and 50 per cent. British."

"This would do for Anglo-French co-operation what the Dominions Office does for relations between the Dominions and Britain."

CENTURIES APART

Asking why Europe afflicted each generation with a major war, Commander King-Hall said the reason was that there were two sorts of nations at a different stage of political evolution.

One group included England, France, Holland, and Sweden, who understood we were living in the Twentieth Century; the other group comprised the Russians and Germans, who were still in the Nineteenth or Eighteenth Century. — Reuter.

RIDDLE OF LIFE ON MARS MAY BE HIS BIG TRIUMPH

The man who may be the first to establish whether there is life on Mars and other planets is to receive the highest honour British astronomers can bestow.

Attempts to solve the much-discussed problem will be made when the gigantic 200-inch telescope at Mount Wilson Observatory, California, is ready for use shortly.

The man who will try to solve the riddle of Mars is Dr. Edwin E. Hubble, the director of the observatory. He has already seen more of the outer distances of stellar space than any other individual.

For his remarkable observations in the heavens, he has been awarded the Gold Medal of the Royal Astronomical Society. Officially, the honour has been bestowed for his "outstanding work on the distances, velocities, distribution and nature of the extra-galactic nebulae."

This work was accomplished through the 100 inch diameter telescope, which was being polished to its final perfection during the last war, and which was also set up at Mount Wilson, 0,000ft. above sea level.

Dr. Hubble, who enlisted as a private in the American Expeditionary Force and rose to the rank of major, was appointed to the observatory on his demobilisation.

He was the first to see beyond the stellar system through the great telescope. He has surveyed a "piece" of the universe comprising 100 million nebulae—and a nebula is a stellar system like our own system of the Milky Way.

WORLD'S GREATEST TELESCOPE
But the use of the 100in. telescope raised new questions, among them, what is beyond the nebulae?

Work began on the 200in. telescope, weighing 30 tons, after tremendous difficulties had been overcome.

Dr. Hubble expects it will show ten times the volume of the universe that can be seen now, and also throw new light on what the planets in our own small section of the universe are like.

Dr. Hubble, who was a Rhodes scholar at Oxford, has been previously honoured in Britain. In 1934 Oxford University conferred on him the honorary degree of doctor of science, and in 1936 he delivered, at Oxford, the Rhodes Memorial Lectures, under the title, "The Observational Approach to Cosmology."

MAJOR DIPLOMATIC VICTORY FOR ALLIES

LONDON, TO-DAY.
THE "NEW YORK TIMES" STATES THAT THE RUMANIAN BAN ON GASOLINE EXPORTS TO GERMANY "HAD ALL THE EARMARKS OF A MAJOR VICTORY FOR BRITAIN AND FRANCE."

The newspaper adds: "While Germany may have ample reserves of gasoline for a blitzkrieg against Britain by the air force and for the calls of the present war of inaction, she can hardly support a campaign of unlimited bombing operations in the air or a great land offensive on the western battlefields without an uninterrupted flow of Rumanian oil."

"Russia is a potential source but nothing more, for there is every indication that transport troubles in the Winter have prevented Russian supplies reaching Germany in anything more than dribblets."

The journal says that German compulsion to seek other methods is suggested by the German trade envoy's visit to Bucharest.

"All neutral neighbours of Germany know from experience what these other methods mean. They mean pressure based on the tacit threat of armed invasion if the neutrals don't stand and deliver."

"But in Rumania the Allies have ways and means of counteracting at least in part the fear that Germany will attack."

"In effect, the Turks have told Rumania not to be afraid of Germany's anger, since the powerful Turkish army stands ready to help."
—Reuter.

DR. CLODIUS OFF TO BUCHAREST

Amsterdam, To-day.
According to the Berlin correspondent of the "Telegraaf," Dr. Clodius, the Nazi economic expert, has left for Bucharest to clear up the question of Germany's oil supplies.

This is taken as a clear indication of the anxiety felt in Berlin over the oil position.

It is stated that Dr. Clodius will endeavour to persuade the Rumanian Government to exempt oil exports to Germany from the recently imposed 25 per cent. ad valorem duty.—Reuter.

FURTHER BRITISH NEGOTIATIONS

London, To-day.
Reuter learns that the Rumanian reply to the recent British enquiry concerning the purpose of the newly-formed Oil Control Board and the reasons for the increase of Rumanian oil supplies to Germany is regarded in authoritative British circles as forming an adequate basis for further discussions designed to improve trading relations between Rumania and Britain.

The two Governments are now in close contact with a view to achieving that result.—Reuter.

ALTMARK ENQUIRY OPENS

Oslo, To-day.

The British and German Consuls were present at Juosing Fjord yesterday when the Norwegian court of enquiry started investigations into the Altmark affair.

Main object is to take the statements of eye-witnesses and Norwegian naval officers, with a view to establishing the facts.

The British and German versions are in sharp contradiction, each maintaining that the other fired the first shot.

Several officers of the Altmark were present but the authorities decided that they need not make statements unless they wished.

The court decided not to reveal its proceedings.—Reuter.

CONGRESSMEN AND THE PROPOSED LOAN TO FINLAND

WASHINGTON, TO-DAY.
THE PROPOSAL TO PERMIT A LOAN OF $30,000,000 TO FINLAND FOR THE PURCHASE OF MILITARY AND OTHER SUPPLIES IN THE UNITED STATES WAS OVERWHELMINGLY DEFEATED IN THE BANKING COMMITTEE OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES YESTERDAY.

The proposal was in the form of an amendment to the Bill—already approved by the Senate—to increase the capital of the Export and Import Bank to permit loans to Finland and other countries for non-military purposes.—Reuter.

NORWEGIAN AND BELGIAN SHIPS BOMBED BY NAZIS

British Aircraft Drop Leaflets On Vienna

BRITISH SHIP MACHINE-GUNNED: TWO WOUNDED

LONDON, TO-DAY.
NAZI AEROPLANES WERE BUSY IN THE NORTH SEA YESTERDAY, LOOKING FOR UNARMED MERCHANTSHIPS. AS USUAL, THE NEUTRALS SUFFERED.

Two Norwegian ships were attacked, one being set on fire, the other sunk.

A lifeboat stood by the ship that was on fire while repairs were being made. The ship later continued on its voyage.

Her captain told the lifeboat that another Norwegian ship, whose name he did not know, had been bombed and sunk. A British naval vessel is now searching for the crew.

A Belgian captain has reported that his ship is sinking and the captain of another has wirelessed that his vessel is being "taken in tow by a warship."

Norway has also lost another ship, the 1,600 tons Telnes, which has not been heard from since February 9. She was bound from New York to Holland and Belgium, and had a crew of 18.—Reuter.

FLIGHT OVER AUSTRIA

LONDON, TO-DAY.
For the second time, R.A.F. planes have flown over Austria. The first flight was on the night of January 12, when R.A.F. machines flew over north-west Germany, Vienna and Prague. This time they flew over Austria and Bohemia.—Reuter.

LEAFLETS DROPPED

LONDON, TO-DAY.
Reuter's correspondent with the R.A.F. says that German anti-aircraft guns went into action without success against British planes which flew over Austria and Bohemia.

The guns failed to score a hit as the planes twisted and turned. No German fighter planes were seen.

The airmen who returned to France reveal that leaflets were dropped.—Reuter.

"GOTHIC" ATTACKED

LONDON, TO-DAY.
For the first time since November 22, Nazi planes on Thursday/Friday night flew "towards Britain."

They did not attempt to attack any warships, however, but machine-gunned the British steamer Gothic, of 2,500 tons. The captain and second mate were injured, but the ship has returned safely to port.—Reuter.

PUTS BACK TO PORT.

LONDON, TO-DAY.
The British ship Gothic (2,429 tons) which left port on Wednesday night, returned within two hours, having been attacked by enemy planes.

The skipper, Capt. J. Cooper-Nesbitt, and the Second Mate, Mr. Laxton, were injured, the latter seriously, by machinegun bullets, and are in hospital. The ship's superstructure was heavily riddled by bullets.—Reuter.

GERMANS TAKEN OFF STEAMER

Berlin, To-day.

According to a German news agency message from Lisbon the British auxiliary cruiser Comorin stopped the Portuguese steamer Nyasa, bound for Mossamedes from Lourenco Marques, and removed 12 German passengers, including two wives.—Reuter.

IMPORTANT COPENHAGEN CONFERENCE

Stockholm, To-day.

The Swedish Foreign Minister, Mr. Guenther, left by train last night for Copenhagen to attend the conference of Foreign Ministers of Denmark, Sweden and Norway that opens in the Danish capital to-day.

Although the maritime question is the direct occasion of the meeting there is no doubt that the Ministers will take the opportunity of discussing many matters urgently concerning all three States, including the question of Finland and the attitude to be adopted in the event of open intervention by another power and problems relating to Scandinavian security, especially in the event of an invasion of any of these countries.

Although Scandinavian exasperation at the difficulties of neutral shipping has been rising steadily it is not expected that any sensational results will emerge from the conference, which will probably be concluded by Sunday.—Reuter.

SAFETY IN CONVOY

Paris, To-day.

Of 2,000 merchantmen, convoyed by the French since the beginning of the war, only three have been sunk. The French Navy has escorted 116 convoys, and co-operated with the Royal Navy in 33 other convoys.—Reuter.

WALTHAM EXPLOSION FINDING

London, To-day.

A verdict of accidental death was recorded at the inquest yesterday on the victims of the Waltham Abbey powder factory explosion.

The Coroner said there was no evidence of sabotage.

Evidence was given by Colonel Perrereau, military assistant to the Chief Superintendent of Ordnance Factories, that the court of enquiry had concluded that the most likely cause of the explosion was the abnormal weather.

The court considered it possible that it was due to nitroglycerine becoming frozen, and that it had been inadvertently worked in that state by one of the operatives.—Reuter.

GERMAN WARSHIPS IN HELIGOLAND AREA BOMBED BY R.A.F.

London, To-day.

THE R.A.F. HAVE CARRIED out a bombing attack on German warships in the Heligoland Bight, the Air Ministry announces. The attack was carried out on Tuesday-Wednesday night.

Warships in the Bight were attacked with bombs. Anti-aircraft batteries on ships and on shore opened up on our planes, without hitting them.

One R.A.F. bomber was attacked the homeward journey very bad by three enemy fighters, but without success. One of the enemy machines, which accounted for the failure of one bomber to return home.

No casualties or damage were suffered during the operation, but on Berlin states that one R.A.F. machine was brought down.—Reuter.

SOVIET AMBITIONS FOR ANNIVERSARY TRIUMPH DISAPPOINTED: VIBORG HOLDS

Helsinki, To-day.

NO COMMENT ON THE fighting in Finland was made by either side yesterday. It is clear, however, that while the Soviets gained some successes in the early part of the week, at an enormous cost, the Finns still have their tails well up. The Finnish radio announcer at Lahti, commenting yesterday on the Soviet celebrations of the 22nd anniversary of the Red Army and Fleet, said that a great victory was put on the programme in honour of the day.

Immense concentrations of troops and war material were sent to the Karelian Isthmus, and Soviet Russia's best officers and crack troops were sent to the Front. A decisive defeat of the Finnish Army was expected.

On February 1, continued the Finnish announcer, the offensive started—but successes were far below expectations.

To keep up the morale of the population, successes therefore had to be invented, and it so happened that sometimes the reports were contradictory.

"We can only hope," chuckled the Finnish announcer, "that the Soviet leaders will invent more and bigger lies to spare the public disappointment on the anniversary of the Red Army!"

Despite reports of victories, the announcer concluded, the population of Leningrad is sceptical about "successes"; the strings of wounded returning to the front tell another tale—for the hospitals are full and many die owing to the lack of trained hospital staffs and medicines.—Reuter.

Finnish Communiqué

Helsinki, To-day.

A Finnish communiqué claims to have repulsed two enemy attacks between Muolajaervi and Ayrappaan-juervi after each of which the Russians left approximately a whole battalion dead.

An enemy detachment which attacked at Syaklemi across the Ayrappaan Lake was driven back losing 800 killed and 100 prisoners.

In the course of cleaning up the stronghold captured on Wednesday, north of Lake Ladoga, an abundance of war material was captured, including 12 guns and over 50 machineguns and tractors. — Reuter.

REDS DENY BOMBING OF PAJALA

London, To-day.

A denial by the official Soviet news agency, Tass, that Soviet aircraft bombed the Swedish village of Pajala, was broadcast on the Moscow radio last night.

It was declared that not a single Soviet plane had flown over Pajala, nor generally over Swedish territory.

Rumours that the Soviet had demanded from Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania the cession of new naval bases and increases in the Russian garrisons in the ceded bases were likewise described as baseless and completely false.—Reuter.

JEWS AND ARABS WORK TOGETHER

LONDON, TO-DAY.

AN AMERICAN NEWS AGENCY MESSAGE IN THE NEW YORK NEWSPAPERS FROM JERUSALEM: "ARAB BOYS AND JEWISH GIRLS DANCING TOGETHER IN JERUSALEM CABARETS IS SYMPTOMATIC OF THE GREATLY IMPROVED JEWISH-MOSLEM RELATIONS RESULTING FROM PALESTINE'S WAR PREPARATIONS."

"A tour of the Holy Land provides evidence that Jews and Arabs have forgotten their differences in the new economic life which the constantly arriving British troops have injected in Palestine."

"In many places Jews and Arabs are seen working peacefully side by side, digging trenches, filling sandbags and building barracks."—Reuter.

GERMANY'S INJURED "INNOCENCE"

Stockholm, To-day.

THE LIBERAL NEWSPAPER "Dagens Nyheter" comments ironically on the indignation in Germany at the alleged pro-British sympathy in Norway in the Altmark case.

At the same time, says the paper, the inventive mind of Dr. Goebbels has hit on the idea of making a move which will leave neutral public opinion with no vestige of a right to make itself heard.

The German press has been instructed to develop the theme that it is inconsistent with true neutrality for public opinion in a neutral country to express itself! German propagandists could not more unblushingly admit that they are seeking to undermine the free existence of the neutral states. Hitherto, they have not had much success in their campaign.

The "Social-Demokraten" comments that the unrestrained propaganda in Germany in connection with the Altmark is an attempt to exploit Scandinavian reaction.

But, comments the paper, Scandinavian opinion will not forget that it is Germany which has deliberately and frequently violated the Scandinavian right to free shipping. — Reuter.

MORE QUAKE SHOCKS IN TURKEY

(SPECIAL TO "CHINA MAIL")
Istanbul, To-day.

A violent earthquake destroyed two villages in the vicinity of the town of Kalsarie killing over a hundred people.

Landslides are threatening many houses in the town of Gordes which has been evacuated.

Seismic shocks were also felt in Sivras district.—Havas.

VICTORY FOR NATIONAL CAUSE

London, To-day.

Voters at the by-election at Silvertown, the dockers and industrial area on the East End outskirts of London, yesterday registered a striking victory for the national cause.

The vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Jack Jones, Labour member for over 20 years, resulted in Alderman J. H. Hollins (Labour) obtaining 14,343 votes.

Mr. Harry Pollitt, the prominent Communist, was second with 966, and Mr. Thomas Moran (British Union of Fascists) third with 151.

Mr. Pollitt and Mr. Moran forfeit their election deposits of £150, owing to the paucity of the votes they polled.

Alderman Hollins told Reuter after the declaration of the poll that the result was an expression of opinion by the workers of this country that they are standing solidly in their determination to wipe out evil things from the face of Europe.

"Silvertown has again sent a message to the Labour movement and to the nation that it is prepared to see that the men who are manning the ships, trenches and aerodromes get all the support the working class movement of this country is able to give." — Reuter.

H.K. GIFT TO ST. DUNSTAN'S

Arising out of an urgent appeal from St. Dunstan's Home, the President and Committee of the British War Organisation Fund, Hong Kong Branch, have decided to allocate a sum of £1,000/- out of the funds in their hands for remittance to that Institution.

It is understood that donations to St. Dunstan's are also being utilised for assisting men and women of the Army, Navy and Air Force and members of the Regular Fire Brigades and Police Forces, who may be blinded in the present war.

Long Arm Of British Sea Power: Churchill Speech

Men Of "Ajax" And "Exeter" At The Guildhall

DUTCH ANGER ROUSES NAZI IRE!

Amsterdam, To-day.

The anger and consternation caused in Holland by the sinking of Dutch ships is reflected in the "Algemeen Handelsblad," which describes torpedoing without warning as an act of injustice unworthy of a seafaring nation.

The newspaper points out that not a single Italian or American ship has been lost in this way. It is Netherland and Scandinavian shipping that is made to suffer.

"There is a deliberate plan not only to torpedo without warning but to pick on ships sailing on behalf of small neutral countries which are dependent on supplies from other neutral lands overseas."

Government circles in Berlin are very angry at the bitter comments in small neutral countries about the U-boat campaign.

NAZI REPLY

Neutral correspondents in the Nazi capital were told yesterday: "A very sharp answer will be forthcoming in press attacks on the Nazi methods of sea warfare are continued."

Nazi officials declared: "Neutral newspapers, particularly the Dutch press, must mend their manners. Germany can no longer tolerate accusations being made against her submarine commanders, whose conduct is even being called barbarous."

Nazi officials refused to comment on the statement of the captain of the Tara that his ship was torpedoed without warning, resorting to the stock reply that they must await the submarine commander's report before expressing any opinion. — Reuter.

'ON GOD'S SIDE' SAYS PRIMATE

"We must be upheld in the war by an invincible faith in the rightness of our cause" said the Archbishop of Canterbury in a broadcast address.

He recalled that Abraham Lincoln, when asked: "Do you think God is on our side?", replied: "I don't know. What matters is that we should be on the side of God."

The Archbishop continued: "Why should we be willing to meet all the consequences of war for the sake of protecting the freedom and lands of smaller States against the aggression of powerful neighbours, of insisting that the pledges of nations shall be kept?"

"It cannot be because we fear that our own safety may come to be in danger. Is it not because we believe these things stand for the eternal verities of right and wrong?"

"Can we doubt, then, whatever our own sins and shortcomings as a nation may be, that in contending for these things we are on God's side?"

MODEST SPEECH BY CAPTAIN WOODHOUSE

London, To-day.

THE MEN OF H.M.S. AJAX and H.M.S. Exeter filed diffidently into the famous banquet hall at Guildhall yesterday but soon regained their self-possession and a hum of conversation filled the hall.

Captain Bell and Captain Woodhouse, the commanding officers of the two cruisers, sat on either side of the Lord Mayor, Sir William Coxen. Mr. Winston Churchill (First Lord of the Admiralty), Sir Samuel Hoare (Lord Privy Seal), Sir Kingsley Wood (Air Minister), Lord Chatfield (Defence Co-ordination Minister) and Lord Hankey (Minister without Portfolio) sat nearby.

Proposing the toast the Lord Mayor referred to the courage, daring, skill, seamanship and tenacity of the Battle of River Plate, which merited an honoured place in the annals of the Navy.

They had had stories of new engines of destruction which the enemy was about to produce, he said, but there was one thing he could not build — boys of the bulldog breed, some of whom they were honouring to-day.

After a modestly phrased and loudly applauded speech by Capt. Woodhouse, declaring that their encounter with the Graf Spee in the early morning on a nice, fine day, with plenty of room, had made them the envy of the rest of the Navy, Mr. Winston Churchill rose.

3,000 DEAD

Mr. Churchill said the ties uniting the Navy and the nation or the Navy and the Mercantile Marine were never so strong.

The brunt of the war had fallen on the sailormen and their comrades of the R.A.F. Coastal Command, and they had lost 3,000 lives in the hard unrelenting struggle.

The brilliant fight which they were celebrating warmed the cockles of the British heart in a dark old Winter.

It would be a comfort and encouragement to the flotillas, the Grand Fleet, the minesweepers and all warships and auxiliaries whose number was now about 1,700 and rapidly rising, that London should show its approval of the way the Navy was carrying on and going to carry on, "until not only the cargoes by which we live but the high purposes we have in hand are all brought safely into port."

SPECIAL CONDITIONS

The Admiralty and the Fleet were learning together the special conditions of this hard and novel war, although mistakes and accidents would occur and sorrow fall from time to time upon us.

To the glorious action of the River Plate there was recently added an epilogue, namely last week's rescue, under the noses of the enemy and amid the tangles of a one-sided neutrality, of British captives by H.M.S. Co-sack, proving that the long arm

WHO RULES THE SEAS?

London, To-day.

The Cairo newspaper "El Mokattam," in a leader headed "Who rules the Seas?" emphasises the fact that whoever does this is sure to win the war, and proves that Britain still rules and is assured of victory.

The article points out the insignificance of the German naval measures, and concludes with a reference to the German threat after the Altmark incident. "This does not worry the British as Germany has already done its worst and its ultimate fate is sealed."

Senator Mohamed Abdel Magid abd Bey, writing in the same paper, says England's policy never was hostile to the Moslems and recalls occasions of friendly co-operation in history.

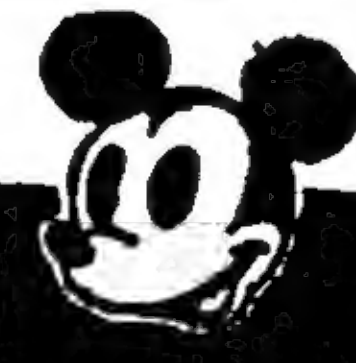

ONE-SIDED NEUTRALITY

The Argentine newspaper "Action" declares: "The British were justified owing to the Norwegian failure in their duty as a neutral. Neutrals can claim respect for territorial waters only when acts favouring one belligerent are not committed therein."

The entire press of Beyrouth shows strong sympathy and approval of the British action in the Altmark, which is described as brilliant navigation, full of courage and heroism and worthy of British naval traditions.

The "Annahar" in an editorial describes the episode as stigmatising Germany with piracy while establishing once again Britain's indisputable supremacy overseas. — Reuter.

of British sea power could be stretched out not only for our foes but also for our faithful friends. To Nelson's immortal signal "England expects every man to do his duty" might now be added "The Navy is here." — Reuter.

RUSSIAN LOSSES ARE IMMENSE

By Leland Stowe, Our Special Correspondent
In Finland.

IN Finland, and for the first time in history, totalitarian aerial warfare is being waged against the entire civilian population of a nation. In Poland, the Nazi air raids registered new heights for concentrated horror. But in Finland something is going on that the demons of aerial warfare have never experimented with before. The Russian raiders have synchronised bombing attacks on civilians everywhere in Finland with wholesale warfare in every section of the country. To an unprecedented degree, the terror and nerve strain of indiscriminate aerial bombardment is being applied with diabolical method to an overwhelming majority of the nation's men, women and children. Whether in Central Finland, along the Bothnian coast, or in the heart of Lapland at a frontier junction like Ivalo, there is no escape. The Red bombers are in the initial stages of a systematic dynamiting of an entire people.

This is new and its possible influence upon the final outcome of the war is completely incalculable. Obviously, the Kremlin is trying to shatter the morale of the Finnish people to destroy their will to resist. The increased tempo of aerial frightfulness during the past week clearly foreshadows a steady heightening of "bombing pressure" upon every corner of the land. No other people has yet been required to endure this kind of totalitarian torture.

The pressure can be relieved if Finland gets hundreds of fighting planes very soon. If she does not get this indispensable weapon for civilian self-defence, what effect will a constantly increasing rhythm of Soviet air raids have upon the civilian morale? Is it possible that the Finns may ultimately be defeated behind their front lines before those lines have ever been broken? Will Moscow yet win its totalitarian war upon civilians?

It seems impossible to do much more than raise these significant questions. This is particularly true because the Finns are an exceptionally stoical people—so much so that most of them seem to have been born without nerves. It is extremely difficult for a foreigner to estimate just how deeply the repercussions of the unrelaxed nerve strain may go among Finnish civilians to date.

Nevertheless, the war on civilians has become cruel in the extreme. In this Far Northern winter what militarists call "the effectiveness" of aerial bombings is doubled or tripled. In any number of towns almost all window panes have been blown out of the houses, as is reported in the case of Rovaniemi. In that town, the temperature now fluctuates from ten to thirty-five below zero Centigrade, and without window panes dwellings automatically become uninhabitable or traps for pneumonia.

This is the kind of torture and slow death which the invention of the airplane has now brought to Finland's unhappy people. Nowhere within their own borders can they be safe against it, since the Reds can bomb any corner of the land with ease and nineteen-twentieths of it with complete immunity. Unless the Finns obtain squadrons of fighting planes before long, the strain upon the Finnish civilian morale will become greater than any people has ever known. In such cases one wonders how long human nerves may endure without cracking, and yet the Finns' powers of resistance remain unbelievable so far.

This, therefore, is not written in any defeatist sense whatever. Rather, it is my intention to point out one of the crucial intangibles and unpredictables of the Russo-Finnish war. It seems peculiarly important that world opinion should appreciate the unprecedented severity of the tests of civilian staying power that are being inflicted upon the Finnish people. If they can maintain an unbroken spirit through the next three months they will have put a new meaning upon human grandeur.

I cannot end this without one more word, I have lived with the Finnish people for the first two months of the war. During this time, I have never heard one Finn utter a word of complaint. To me this remains the almost incomprehensible. Yet it is a fact. This, I think, is something of which the Finnish people have a right to be eternally proud. It is this, too, which makes one wonder whether somehow or other they may yet do what no other people has ever done.

But there is another point which seems to me important. The Russian losses, it is known, are immense. But what of the Finnish casualties?

One of the major mysteries of the Russo-Finnish war concerns the number of the Finnish army losses in dead and wounded since the hostilities began. The Finnish communiques always give approximations of the Soviet casualties, but never mention their own, and the correspondents who visit war zones are never permitted to see any battlefield until all Finnish corpses have been removed.

In these circumstances only the Finnish High Command possesses precise figures of the Finnish losses, and it seems very probable that those will not be made public, if ever, until after the war. In view of Finland's limited manpower, this secrecy is perfectly understandable, for even the men who require several months in hospital before they are fit for active service again represent a noticeable drain upon Finland's fighting strength.

Fortunately for the Finns, there are strong reasons for the belief that the Finnish losses in dead and seriously wounded have been remarkably low up to date. One foreign observer estimates that the Finns have lost less than six thousand men in these two categories during the first five weeks of the war. Others believe it possible that the Finnish total (again of dead and gravely injured) may not have exceeded ten thousand when the conflict entered its third month—this of course is a guess, but a measured guess.

In any case, the Russian casualties have been simply enormous in contrast with those of the Finns. It seems safe to say that the Soviets have lost more than eighty thousand men, either killed in battle or dead from exposure. Their wounded and disabled must bring the Reds' total of casualties well above one hundred and fifty thousand—some say as many as two hundred thousand—something, which represents in any case a staggering ratio in proportion to the number of their men actually engaged in active combat.

When the facts of this nature can become definitely established, the cost in terms of manpower to the Soviet army, during the first two months of warfare, is likely to startle military experts. By the same token, the economy in the lives lost by the Finns, while winning a series of brilliant victories under extremely heavy artillery and machine-gun fire, is certain greatly to impress military authorities everywhere. Whether the Finns lose or win the war, they have already written a military history which has rarely been equalled. But only their high army officers will be qualified to tell the whole story some day in the future.

TORPEDOES THAT STOPPED A GAME OF CHESS

OFFICER TELLS HOW TROOP LINER SANK

London, Jan. 31.

HERE, IN SIMPLE, dramatic detail is the story of how a U-boat 200 miles out in the Atlantic in October torpedoed and sank the Bibby liner Yorkshire with invalids of the R.A.M.C. aboard.

The story is told by a young officer in the British Army, a nephew of Lady Diana Cooper, in a letter to a friend which the United States magazine "Time" publishes:

Most of us on board were invalids or personnel of the R.A.M.C., returning home from the East. We had on board a magnificent variety of interesting diseases. I was "The Rheumatism."

At lunch I played a game of chess with the ship's doctor, an old Scotsman of about 70. I leant forward to take a piece, but my hand never reached it, for there was a sudden crash and the chessmen went flying across the deck.

We had been torpedoed. The impossible had happened.

I found myself on my feet for the first time in eight weeks, and they gave way beneath me. I felt flat on my face.

My lifebelt was under my chair, and I put it on from ground level. As I did so I looked back over my shoulder and saw a great red sheet of flame with smoky edges hanging in the sky above our stern.

I once more struggled to my feet, just in time to be thrown over by the second torpedo, which hit us amidships.

The boards covering No. 3 hatch had been blown off by the force of the explosion and there was a deep yawning hole. Hanging by one hand to the corner of a tarpaulin and swinging over this abyss, with kicking legs, was a little girl.

She and two others had been playing on top of the hatch. The other two had been killed. I saw a soldier pull her to safety.

At last our boat came down. Suddenly the sea seemed to gather itself together and come aboard us in a rush; a great, green smooth-backed wave surged over the side.

TRAPPED BETWEEN DECKS

Those standing around the boats were either swept overboard or trapped between the two decks. Those of us who were still on our feet struggled up the companionway and down on to the port deck.

I staggered to the side on watery legs, straddled the taffrail and looked down. There was a boat in the water and several ropes leading down into it.

These were the life-liners and were fastened above to the boat deck. Halfway down one of these ropes was a woman clinging to it like a monkey to a stick.

The woman got off the rope, and I slid down it. It must have been a 12ft. drop, and the lifeboat was jumping to the swell. And then, in a desperate voice, somebody shouted, "Cast off, for God's sake, she's going."

Before the stern falls could be cut or cast off the Yorkshire reared her bows into the air and slid backwards to the bottom. And we were still tied to her.

I remember being pinned There was a roar of rushing water which almost obliterated the screaming.

I did not go deep; it never became dark, but was always frothy. Hard things swept by me. I groped upwards with my hands and kicked with my feet.....

CONVOY HAD TO GO

The first thing that struck me was that the sun was shining, and that the great ship had completely disappeared. I came up within a foot of a life-raft and caught hold of it.

There were two other rafts, each with two men on them, quite close, otherwise we could see nothing except the other ships of the convoy making off as hard as they could.

It was only then that I remembered they were forbidden to pick us up.

Then a lifeboat appeared We were towed about for two hours. At length we were joined by four other lifeboats. We were taken aboard a comparatively empty boat.

THEN—A LIGHT

It soon got dark, and our optimism waned with the light. The sea looked as cruel as death.

And then we saw a light — only a pinpoint. We lit some flares

And then I saw that there were two lights It was a ship, and coming towards us.

She was an American freighter, the Independence Hall, and I have never heard anything so sweet as the sound of those American voices as the crew leant over the side and hailed us.

She had 80 beds in the hold. There were over 300 of us in that hold, for the crew of another torpedoed ship, the City of Mandalay had already been picked up.

GERMANY HAS SPECIAL RADIO JAMMING STATION

Germany has a special radio station for jamming foreign broadcasts.

The announcer from Deutschlandsender made the admission when he read from a list of gifts to the troops: "Two hundred marks from the jamming station at Stralsund."

This is the first time that any country has admitted that it keeps a station specially for jamming.

GERMANS TELL OF ENGLISH 'RAIL CRASH'

The Germans, who have had nine smashes on their railways with the loss of 400 lives since the war began, organised a fictitious smash in England.

B.B.C. linguists listening-in to the German news broadcasts in Hungarian and Rumanian heard the German announcer give details of an English rail disaster.

The German announcer saying it had shocked England, quoted extracts from an imaginary B.B.C. bulletin to prove it.

The B.B.C. denied that they had broadcast such a bulletin.

B. E. F. RAID ON GERMANS

British troops have raided German trenches. A British patrol, out in No Man's Land, beyond the Maginot Line, entered enemy outpost trenches. They found that some of the trenches were deserted. Gunfire was spasmodic during the British raid, but the only injury suffered by the British patrol was a sprained ankle caused when a member of the patrol stumbled into an anti-tank trap.

DISGUISED GERMAN SHIPS SPY ON R.A.F. PATROLS

German naval vessels, some of them disguised, are lurking off the Heligoland Bight watching for the bomber-fighters of the R.A.F. whose mission it is to harry the German nests of mine-laying seaplanes.

This is Germany's answer to the R.A.F. security patrols.

The vessels are signal-stations, to flash to the coast instant warning of an R.A.F. approach.

Because of the disguises they are a problem to the R.A.F., who must take on risk of mistaking a neutral fishing boat for one of them.

Bomber-fighters have attacked some of these craft, but never without the certainty that they were naval vessels, acting as watchers for the German coastal command.

When in doubt, pilots have always spared them.

Though the problem remains, it is not an insoluble one. The R.A.F. will find the answer before long.

"KIPPER KITES"

The Air Ministry does not regard the security patrol as in itself a cure for mine-laying from the air, but as only one of a number of possible measures for curing it.

Nevertheless, a very marked reduction in the intensity of the Germans' use of this weapon has coincided with the use of the patrols.

They have been carried out without loss.

The R.A.F. is now watching with increased vigilance over the herring fleets, following repeated German attacks upon them.

Planes given this duty—the Navy rudely calls them "Kipper Kites"—have not lately encountered a single German plane.

During three days 260 aircraft were out on patrol.

INEXPENSIVE SATISFYING

IRRITATION AND BOREDOM OF AIR RAIDS IN HELSINKI

If you happen to be lunching in a certain building in Helsinki when the air-raid sirens ring, you can climb up on the roof and watch the city crawl into its shell. Between the jumble of ice-covered roofs you see the people running for cover, the snow trucks pulling up by the roadside, and the police officers taking their positions on the street corners. Soon there is a silence so ominous that you can hear a door bang many blocks away.

Occasionally you see the grey flash of bombers against the sky, but usually the planes fly so high that you can hear only the drone of engines. You can count the dull thud of bombs falling as far away as ten or fifteen miles, then suddenly the air is shattered by a melange of machine-guns, pom-pom guns, and coastal batteries all firing at once, and you know the bombers are over the city.

Air raid alarms have become so numerous that the policemen on the street corners occasionally break the monotony by starting a snowball fight. People in the restaurants shake their heads in irritation, pick up their soup plates, and hurry out of the hotel to finish their luncheon in the shelters in the park. You hear the telephone operators cutting off the calls with the outside world in bored voices. "Sorry, Copenhagen, we are having another air raid"; and you see the desk clerk shaking his head in angry annoyance.

The desk clerk told me in a burst of confidence that he had had a dream in which 500 brand new Finnish fighters had dived through the clouds and driven all the Russian planes away. "Of course, it was only a dream," he added morosely, "but it was very beautiful."

FALSE ALARM

The trip into Finland is a dramatic experience in itself. A Finnish aeroplane leaves Stockholm in the afternoon and lands at Turku, one of the most heavily bombed ports in Finland. The wireless operator is in constant touch with the aerodrome; often the plane is several hours late in starting, and occasionally is forced to turn back to Sweden half-way across the Gulf of Bothnia. Our plane carried no lights, and when it neared the airport signalled with a flare; suddenly there was a circle of lights far below glowing like candles around a birthday cake.

The train trip to Helsinki normally takes three hours, but since the railroad passes through a bombarded area the length of journey is now uncertain. I found myself in a compartment with a German emigre, two Finnish soldiers, and a Swedish woman who kept asking the conductor nervously what time we were due to arrive. The conductor was a large man with a melancholy voice. His reply was always the same, but dispatched with an air of profound wisdom: "One can never tell."

I soon found out what he meant, for shortly after midnight there was a screeching of brakes, the train came to a jarring stop, and the conductor shouted to everyone to clear off the train and take cover in the woods. We climbed down the embankment in snow several feet deep only to have him shout a few minutes later that it was all a mistake, the planes were not coming after all, and now we could climb back again. We arrived in Helsinki at two in the morning without further incident.

Helsinki, with its normal population of 300,000 reduced to less than a tenth, presents an air of desolation; all the shops are boarded up, only a handful of restaurants are open, and scarcely a dozen cars are on the streets. The life of the city revolves around the hotels, which the Moscow wireless has recently threatened to raze to the ground in order to eliminate "the lying journalists of the capitalist Press."

The lobby of the hotel is crowded with a conglomeration of soldiers, journalists, photographers, politicians and women Territorials, and the dining-room is filled with groups relating their experiences over endless cups of coffee.

A RUSSIAN PRISONER

An American photographer just back from the north told me that when the Finns had brought in a Russian prisoner after one of the battles, he had asked the guard to bring the man into a barn so that he could photograph him. When the Russian walked into the shed and the light of the camera flashed, he crumpled to the ground in a heap. A few seconds later he rose slowly rubbing himself, with a bewildered expression on his face. He thought he had been taken into the barn to be shot; when he was convinced he was still intact he ran up to the photographer, clasped his hands, and thanked him over and over again.

The only mode of transportation available in Helsinki is a one-horse sleigh, in which you can take a drive around the city for the price of one shilling. The driver is a huge Finn with a dropping moustache and a large medal pinned on his coat which he won against the Russians in 1918. I took a drive around the city at night; the onion domes of the old Greek Orthodox church glittered in the moonlight like diamonds. Then we drove through the bombarded section, where the charred remains of houses lying beneath a sheet of ice presented a gruesome contrast. Perhaps the most eerie sight, however, was the abandoned Russian Legation. The windows had been shattered by

ADVICE TO NURSING MOTHERS

It is very important, doctors say, not to overtax your system immediately after the birth of a child. When you are feeding baby yourself, you should take plenty of easily digested nourishment.

For that reason, doctors throughout China recommend Horlicks. They have proved that Horlicks stimulates the appetite, promotes sound sleep and strengthens the whole system. Also Horlicks increases the supply of maternal milk and ensures the success of breast feeding.

Get Horlicks to-day from your store.

PLANNING A GRAND COUP

Richard T. Goodwin of Baltimore, Md., writes: "It is rare indeed when an opportunity for a Grand Coup presents itself, but when it does and its exception is planned in advance of the first card Declarer plays, the successful Declarer has scored a real triumph. Such is the play of Ronald Walker of Baltimore."

"The four notrump is the Blackwood Convention," explains Mr. Goodwin. "When Mr. Walker showed three Aces, the North player didn't even ask for Kings, but jumped to seven spades."

"After the opening lead of the Jack of hearts, the only fear Mr. Walker had was finding all opposing trumps in one hand; and even this could be overcome if they were placed with East. On this assumption, Mr. Walker carefully trumped the opening heart lead in his own hand and followed with a spade to dummy's Queen. Sure enough, his super-caution was justified for West showed out. A trump was led back, forcing East to split his honours. A diamond was then led to dummy and another heart trumped. This procedure was tried once more and a third diamond played to dummy. East followed and Mr. Walker, with a sigh of relief, gathered in his contract by his continued lead of high hearts. A perfectly timed Grand Coup. Failure to trump a heart at the first trick would have resulted in defeat of the contract."

Our congratulations to Mr. Walker for his fine bidding and play.

ANSWER: Your correct bid is three hearts. You are probably going to get to seven with this hand before you are through, but there is no hurry.

Score 100% for three hearts, 0 for three notrump. We are not going to mark the various other bids, since practically any bid that partner cannot pass will lead to no trouble with his fine hand.

COLONY SOCCER TEAM FOR SAIGON?

Following the official visit by the Saigon football team to the Colony during the Chinese New Year's holidays, the Hong Kong Football Association has, it is reported, decided to send a team to Saigon during May on a return visit.

It is understood that three matches, including one interport, will be played there during the visit and the local team will probably be leaving at the end of April.

The "China Mail" also learns that Eastern will visit Rangoon and Singapore during their forthcoming tour.

C.C.C. SHOULD EXTEND RECREIO

(By "ADREM")

Senior Champions, Club de Recreio, are making a great bid to retain their title. In order to do so, however, they cannot afford to drop further points, as C.C.C. their nearest rivals, have secured maximum points in four games, whereas Recreio have already dropped two points.

Craigengower are never a team to be disregarded and will be all out for blood this afternoon, but with territorial advantage, Recreio should not be beaten although they might be held to a draw.

Army should secure their second successive win, against University.

Craigengower should win easily in Junior Division against University but a keen struggle should result from the fixture between Police and I.R.C.

The latter team have shown considerable improvement over their form of last season, while the Police, who are still favourably placed for the championship, have yet to meet with defeat. On their own ground Police will have a slight advantage but frankly I shall not be surprised if either side win.

Following is to-day's cricket programme and some of the teams:—

LEAGUE

Recreio	v	C.C.C.
Army	v	University
C.C.C.	v	University
Police R.C.	v	I.R.C.

FRIENDLIES

K.C.C.	v	H.K.C.C.
H.K.C.C. 2nd XI	v	K.C.C. 2nd XI

The following have been selected to represent Police Recreation Club in a League cricket match at Happy Valley this afternoon against Indian Recreation Club:—

C. Pope, A. E. Carey, W. L. Clarke, T. R. Hunter, P. H. Loughlin, J. L. Stephens, H. Danbrowsky, A. Kirby, F. Forrest, J. Lewis and A. Estael. Rev. J. A. C. Aitkens.

EASTERN TO MEET ROYALS

After two week-ends occupied by the Interports, League football will be again the chief attraction on the programme for this afternoon; most interesting game should be Royal Scots against Eastern at Sookunpoo.

A win for the Chinese will probably result, despite the fact that the Scots will be strengthened by their crack centre-forward, Hossack, who has just returned from Shanghai after the Interport.

Programme On Page 18

LADIES' HOCKEY

ST. ANDREW'S TAKING NO CHANCES TO-DAY

(By "ADREM")

Main attraction in to-day's ladies' hockey programme in the Caer Clark Cup match between St. Andrew's and Central British Association, which will be on C.B.A. ground, starting at 3 p.m.

In order to qualify for a play-off with "Y" for the championship, the Saints must win this game, and the one next Saturday against Recreio.

On recent performances they should succeed in doing this but they are taking no chances and their team this afternoon is the strongest they can field.

Miss Mabel Churn, who did not play last week owing to indisposition, is back in the side again.

C.B.A. TACTICS

C.B.A. are also at full strength — which means a mediocre forward-line but a powerful defence. It is noteworthy that Mrs. M. White, is again appearing as a full back, and Miss D. Moss as custodian. It appears therefore that C.B.A. are staking all on a quick goal and the ability of the defence to keep the Saints' forwards out of shooting range.

In the other senior game, C.B.S., who entertain a powerful Hong Kong Ladies' team, are unlikely to do better than extend their experienced opponents.

In the Brawn Cup, Argonauts the present leaders and potential champions, will not be in action and the most interesting game should be between D.G.S., at present second in the table, and "Y" Ladies.

The schoolgirls will field their usual team but with "Y" considerably strengthened by the return to the custodian's berth of Miss Sheila Bruce, who has been on leave, and of Mrs. Violet Fowler to the centre-forward position, will take a lot of beating.

The other game should result in a win for C.B.A. over C.B.S.

Following is to-day's Ladies' hockey programme and teams:—

HOLLAND SPY RING ARRESTS

Amsterdam, To-day.

Following the discovery of a big spy ring in Holland arrests are expected shortly in connection with the luminous balls which have recently been fired into the air at night in various parts of the country.

Purpose of the balls is evidently to guide foreign aircraft.

It has already been reported, though not confirmed, that some people being held in connexion with the spy plot are suspected of having sent them up.

The military authorities, meanwhile, are investigating reports that further coloured balls were shot into the sky near Amersfoort and Loenen a few nights ago.

The existence of the spy ring was disclosed with the arrest of six persons, including a German, at Groningen, in north Holland.

Police investigations followed the attempted escape of two foreign soldiers who had been interned.—Reuter.

THOSE WHO RUN RISKS WARNED

London, To-day.

Sir Walter Monckton, Director-General of the Press Bureau, had a frank talk with journalists at the Press Club luncheon yesterday.

Sir Walter gave a warning that certain newspapers "who prefer to do their own censorship" would not be allowed indefinitely to escape the regulations which the press generally had accepted.

He had not to institute proceedings against any newspaper but in two cases had submitted papers to the Director of Public Prosecutions.

Sir Walter recalled that the submission of news for censorship was voluntary, and appealed to defaulters not to take an unfair advantage of the rest of the press by failing to submit news when necessary.

"If not, though I should hate it, I cannot let it rest there," he concluded.—Reuter.

Finland, or that Germany won't receive from Russia equivalent advantages in Scandinavia?

"Control of Finland, Norway and Sweden by Germany and Russia would mean that our considerable purchases there could be stopped, and Germany would be able to organise additional markets for herself.

"A well-planned adequate and decisive action now could curtail the duration of the war, while any half-hearted intervention would be abortive from the start."—Reuter.

The House of Representatives, by 161 votes to 144, yesterday rejected a proposal that the approval of Congress should be required for all future reciprocal trade pacts entered into by the United States.

The House also rejected a proposal that the Senate alone should ratify the pacts.—Reuter.

The banking committee of the House of Representatives yesterday approved the Bill to increase the capital of the Export and Import Bank but in slightly different form to that approved by the Senate. The new form would allow a $20,000,000 credit for Finland, to be used for the purchase of aircraft.—Reuter.

The New York wireless states that Mr. Sumner Welles is expected to confer with Hitler when he visits Berlin. It says that the American Ambassador called on the Foreign Office in Berlin to arrange the meeting. Washington, To-day.

A proposal that the United States should co-operate with Britain in order to minimise the effects of the censorship of United States air mail at Bermuda has been made by Senator Key Pittman.

He suggested an agreement by which mail destined for Germany and Italy and other countries bordering on Germany should be kept separate for the censor's inspection, if the British would permit other mail to go through unmolested.

Meanwhile the State Department has issued a statement regarding reports that armed British Marines boarded the Clipper at Bermuda.

The statement says that a telegram from Mr. Juan Trippe, President of Pan-American Airways, next day, made no mention of any such incident.

"No mention was made by Mr. Trippe or in the report of the U.S. consul that force was used or threatened in connexion with the removal of mails from the plane. Both the captain of the plane and the Pan-American representative were in communication with the consul and had every opportunity to mention any use of force or threat of force by the British authorities."—Reuter.

London, To-day.

The Gothenburg newspaper "Nytid" says that Mr. Anthony Eden's demonstrative visit to Egypt means that something is doing.

Germany cannot prevent mobilisation there. Hopes that the Arab world would finish the hated British have vanished.

The paper continues: Russia's setback in Finland has given the Allies trumps in the diplomatic game. If the Allies cut oil deliveries from Baku the war is won and Berlin and Moscow have lost.—Reuter.

Washington, To-day.

Senator Gerald Nye, speaking at the annual banquet of Grand Master Masons, declared that "arrogant Britain" would come to terms quickly over the censorship of U.S. mails if American air liners in future avoided Bermuda. "If the German, Russian or Japanese authorities were to rifle our mails, as the Britons are doing at Bermuda, how easy it might be to enrage the people to an anger that was boundless," he declared. Senator Nye added that Britain had good reason to disregard United States protests utterly as they had meant nothing in the past.—Reuter.
